Glen VII 10'
4-berth

ed interiors, attractively furnished

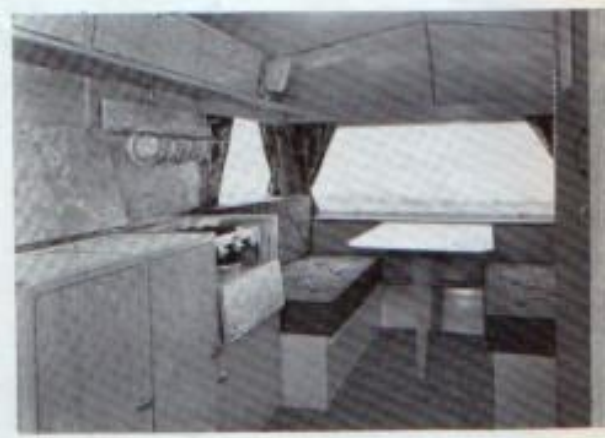

Even the smallest Thomson T-Line caravan offers a surprising amount of living space, as these illustrations of the lightweight Glen VII denote. Full-width "low-line" windows add to the impression of airiness created by the Glen's skilfully planned interior in which three adults and a child can be accommodated.

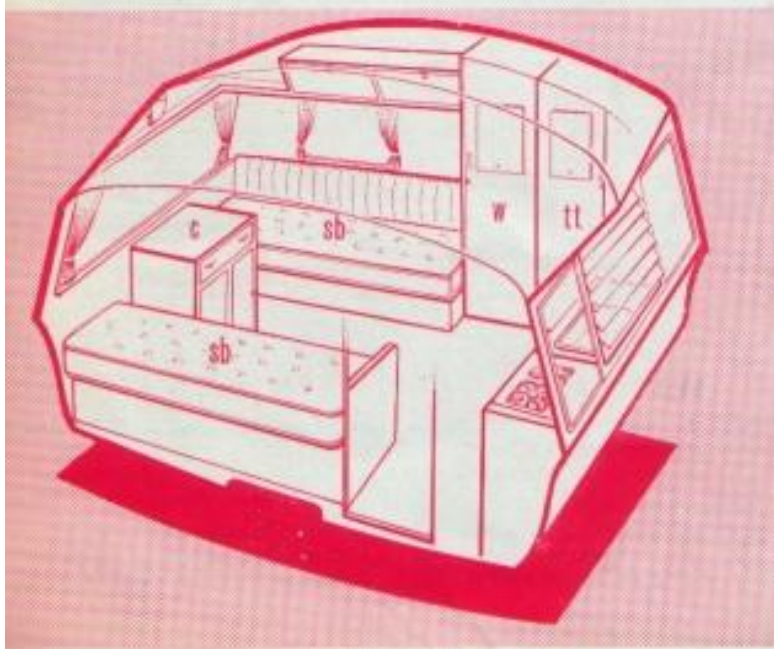

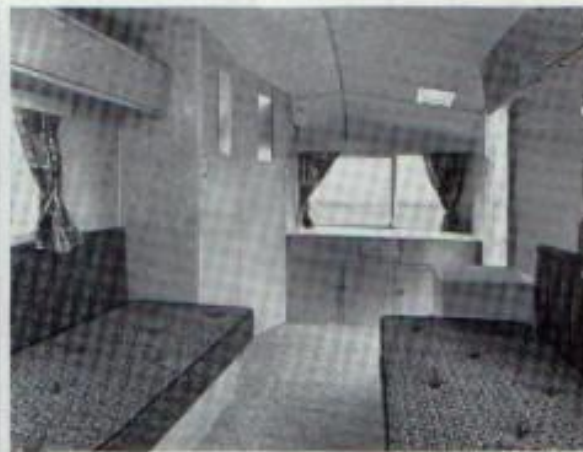

The interior view (upper left illustration) reveals the beautifully upholstered bed-settee and the well-positioned kitchen equipment which includes a gas hotplate and concealable Perspex sink with large storage cupboards beneath. Other easy-to-reach cupboards and shelves are fitted at eye level.

A single bed-settee, with juvenile's folding bunk above, is situated across the width of the caravan at the forward end, while a double bed-dinette and a large wardrobe occupy the rear section.

Suitable for towing by cars of over 800 cc. engine capacity, the Glen VII has an all-steel chassis and steel torsion bar independent suspension giving great stability when mobile.

Glendale 2/Eight 12' 2-berth

Although exclusively designed for two people, the new Glendale 2/Eight can, nevertheless, seat six adults in comfort, for dining or entertaining.

Single bed-settees separated by a centre aisle run the entire length of the forward section, where a usefully ample locker at the extreme end serves as a firm mounting for the large dining table.

The kitchen installation is neatly arranged across the rear end of the caravan beneath the louvred, draught-free window; a gas hotplate, sink/drain unit and lower storage cupboards being concealed in the handsomely simple kitchen cabinet.

The self-contained toilet apartment is located next to the large wardrobe—Thomson planning ingenuity ensuring that these, as well as the kitchen area, are suitably grouped away from the living quarters.

Attractively grained wall panels and furniture surfaces in natural finish plywood complement the richly-covered upholstery and fitted carpet. A well-styled caravan both inside and out, the Glendale 2/Eight offers holiday caravanners superb T-Line value at a very reasonable price.

The outside picture . . . delightful

Glendale 4/Eight 12' 4-berth

This extremely popular lightweight is equipped with four berths, two dining areas, a substantial wardrobe and good cooking facilities; the main kitchen equipment consisting of a gas hotplate, sink and draining board.

The double bed dinette in the front section forms a comfortable dining and living area which can be easily partitioned from the rear section, giving two separate apartments—a characteristic feature of most Thomson T-Line models.

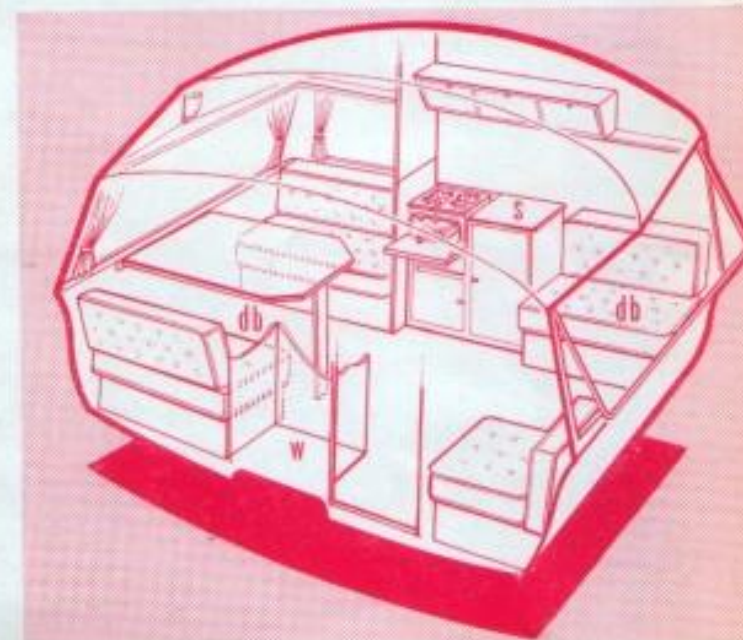

The forward section double dinette has the advantage of a full-width window similar to that fitted at the rear—all occupants are thus able to enjoy an excellent panoramic view of their outside surroundings whilst relaxing in T-Line luxury.

The usual Thomson miscellany of storage spaces abound, with easily accessible lockers and shelves fitted at eye level and built-in under-cupboards incorporated in the kitchen unit and beneath the bed-settees.

The unique interior layout and comprehensive equipment of the Glendale 4/Eight puts this model on a par with larger, more expensive caravans; every inch of interior space being utilized to the best possible advantage.

The prize-winning Glenelg III 13' 4-berth

The Glenelg is a prize winner. In the 1963 Caravan Road Rally, this model won the First Prize Award for caravans costing under £400. The various reasons for this success are apparent when examining the Glenelg III, and we will gladly give you the name and location of your nearest Thomson T-Line distributor.

In the Glenelg forward section, a four-seat dinette converts into a luxurious double bed, while sleeping arrangements in the rear consist of a single bed with a bunk bed above—the latter forming a bed-settee backrest when lowered. These two beds can be curtained off at night to form a snug sleeping area where the occupants can rest undisturbed.

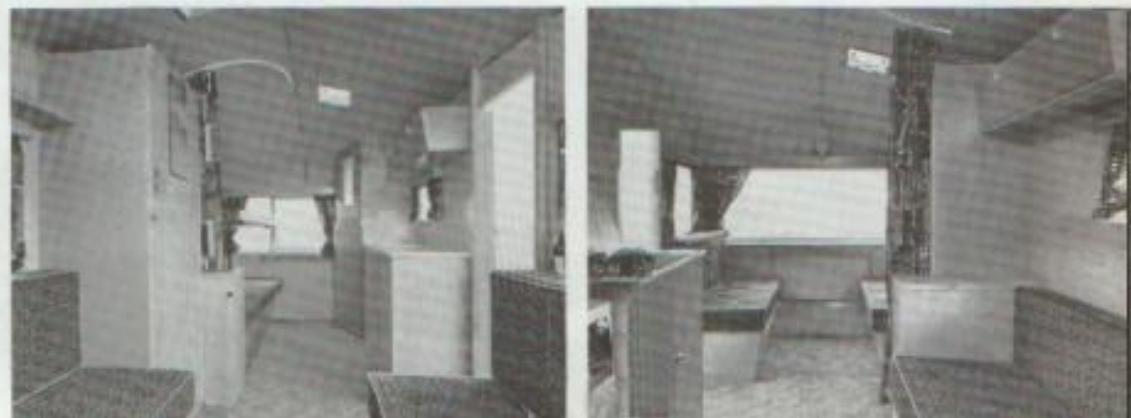

The kitchen unit containing a gas hotplate, sink, draining board and under-cupboards is situated on the near side, and the self-contained toilet apartment is discreetly positioned in the rear corner furthest from the forward dinette. A large wardrobe is included in the forward section and extra storage spaces are provided by eye level lockers, etc.

Glenalmond Mk. X 15' 4-berth

One of the largest models in the T-Line range, the pace-setting Glenalmond Mk. X is a supreme example of all things Thomson. The kitchen is splendidly equipped, all essential items being neatly contained within an elegant cabinet. At a simple touch, this discloses the Glenalmond crockery cupboards, cutlery drawer, ventilated larder, gas hotplate, Perspex sink and draining board with a water pump alongside.

The forward apartment contains a double bed-settee and a fold-away coffee table, while the rear apartment features two single bed-settees and a large locker. A curtain partition separates the Glenalmond Mk. X interior into two roomy apartments whenever necessary.

To complete the picture, there's a large wardrobe, plenty of cupboard space and a self-contained toilet apartment which occupies a discreet corner position.
